

FBSV Scholarship

The FBSV Scholarship is an initiative from the Faculty of Sports and Nutrition. It is meant for students who will follow an internship or part of their studies outside of Europe. If selected, the scholarship is a one-time-only donation of €250 euro per student.

Application criteria

- You should be up-to-date with your credits at the moment of departure
- You should have received approval from the examination board to go abroad
- Your assignment has been approved by your coach
- You do not receive any other scholarship
- The internship or study takes at least three months and takes place in a country outside of Europe

Application documents

To apply for the FBSV scholarship, please send the following documents to sn-international@hva.nl :

- A motivation letter of maximum 350 words, written in English. Describe why you are going abroad and why you should be selected for the grant
- Your acceptance letter from the internship company or the university
- A proof of approval from the examination board

Application deadlines

- 1 September for an internship/study in the first semester
- 1 February for an internship/study in the second semester

There are up to six scholarships available per semester. Of the candidates who meet the application criteria, the ones with the best motivation letter will be selected. The study programme you are following at FBSV is also taken into consideration, as the scholarships are ideally divided proportionally.

Within one month after the application deadline, you will hear whether you are selected.
